where some girls among the men and they waved to the boys on top of the tanks. The tanks, however, and liberators passed each other in the sunshine of a spring morning.

MIXTURE OF NATIONS

In the midst of this steady stream of traffic, German civilians—men, women and children—were walking on foot or on bicycles or in motor cars—were carrying their belongings from some destroyed town into a better one. Once two German girls who perhaps had been walking for hours made the sign of the hilt-hilt to us. The American major was my companion stopped our car and asked me to investigate. At my question, the girls blushed and executed their movements. When I explained to them why we could not invite them into our car, they were depressed but they understood.

Never since the Thirty Years war has Germany seen such a mixture of nations. I smiled when I saw the "Heidelberg Pass" (barrel) guarded by a good-looking Costa Rican soldier, who seemed to regret, just as I did, that the greatest barrel in the world was empty. In an old house in one town where we stopped, breakfast was served to American officers by a charming French girl from Luxembourg, who was an old-fashioned white-skinned, blonde. As she served the coffee, a Negro walked behind her, bringing a dish of oranges. The fruit came from Syria, the coffee from Brazil. That, as I thought, "Where is Australia in this concert of continents?" two officers in big Australian hats entered.

Passing through another town, I saw a crowd in the square standing around a pile of loot which was constantly augmented by the American soldiers who brought uniforms, sabers and pistols abandoned by the fleeing enemy. The Germans looted at these clothes and weapons, and perhaps one or another looked for his father's uniform, but no one dared to take anything.

At night, the whole countryside seemed dead, as no German was allowed to leave his house, and their houses showed little light. Also, almost no cars were on the roads. I felt, on our night drive through Thuringia, as if we were in our car were the only living people.

IMPRESS GERMANS

The quietness and complete lack of excitement, which characterizes the American soldier abroad, in contrast to the American civilian, however, makes a deep impression on the Germans. Orders and commands are admired in Germany, and now they are for the first time that these are achieved without Prussian harshness, without loud commands, without the fear of the American military police.

A second object of German admiration is the MP. The policeman in Germany is a kind of god whom one cannot approach and whom one fears. Now the German sees that the American military police act with a calm which is not at all about them. They are the German so well treated by his own police-men.

The members of the Allied military government were trained in schools, but they act in accordance with individual experience. In some cases, American officers are at the same time conquerors and administrators. One little town taken by two officers who arrived by car, went to the town hall, demanded all the keys, installed an administrator or left the town "conquered" by the military government.

He described the beatitudes and he ordered the Nazis of the camp to dig graves for the bodies of the dead Jews.

FALL INTO GAVE

"Later, when one Nazi came and asked me to excuse him because he had a weak heart and could not do this kind of work, I answered you will work. If you die, you will fall directly into the grave which you are preparing."

I heard some people in America criticize the military government for using Nazis, but here I understood it. "They are often efficient."

General Patton said to me: "If I had anything to do with the military government, I would try them out, as I did with captured Fascists in Sicily. They are accustomed to trembling and they are usable because they fear punishment if they make the slightest error."

Many Questions Await Attention Of Government

reorganization might even await the reassembling of parliament. But he also said his colleagues would be giving thought during his absence to the subject of finding ways for the defeated ministers. Gen. A. G. McNaughton, minister of defence, and Hon. D. Lawrence MacLaren, minister of national revenue.

Adding to that problem is the fact that the government is now facing Hon. G. Gardiner, minister of justice, who is a member of the opposition. The government is now facing Hon. G. ## Indians Get $3,000 Timber Wolf Bounty

THE PAX, June 28.—(CP)

Twelve enterprising Indian residents of Brochet, far northern settlement on Reindeer Lake, suggested their aping income this year by catching some 300 timber wolf cubs for a bounty of $3,000 apiece.

No permits to trap beaver had been issued in the district and it was evident that there would be a poor catch of muskrats in the area. The men will share the $3,000 realized from the cubs.

FINANCE PROBLEM

Finance, too, is a tremendous problem—probably the greatest that confronts the government. Growing demand across the nation for reduction of the heavy tax burden conflicts with the necessity of continued huge expenditures this year in bringing home some 200,000 troops who are still on the army, navy and air force payroll and until they are inducted once more into civilian life and jobs.

Contrary to general opinion, the cost of Canada's part in the post-war problem is relatively higher, too, than providing for the much larger forces in Europe and in the Pacific theatre. Thus, the new budget is one of the first big problems which must be dealt with immediately.

At the same time, the government has to face the difficult problem of reconstruction from its gigantic munitions production by some 30

Fast-Growing Wheat Said Non-Existent

TORONTO, June 28.—(CP)—Canadian grain authorities and cereals were at a loss last night to explain a statement in the London Press that Canada was understood to have a new kind of wheat which ripens in a much shorter time than ordinary strains.

This report of the new wheat, contained in a story in the London Evening News yesterday, said the wheat, because it ripens so quickly, can be planted in areas previously unusable owing to the shortness of the summer.

The London Evening News' financial editor put this forward as a possible reason for heavy London investment in Canadian stocks as indicative of continued Canadian prosperity. But grain men, questioned, said they had yet to hear of this new wheat.

One Dominion government official said: "It is just what I thought." Others gave similar replies.

Air Transport Body Will Hold Meetings

LONDON, June 28.—(Reuters)—A meeting of the Commonwealth Air Transport Council, set up as a result of the Commonwealth talks in Montreal last December, will begin in London July 9 and last about a week. Lord Swinton, British minister of civil aviation, will preside. All Commonwealth countries constituting the council will be sending delegations. Canada will be represented by Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, high commissioner to the United Kingdom.

Not Good Enough

In what appears to have been a rather peremptory refusal, the Edmonton school board declined to accede to the request of the Edmonton school board to build a new school buildings in the Altendale, King Edward Park and Forest Heights school districts.

What lies behind this refusal is not altogether clear.

It is difficult to believe that the members of the school board fail to understand the need for better and more modern school buildings in the Altendale, King Edward Park and Forest Heights school districts. It is equally difficult to believe that the school board is not aware of the fact that this is the feeling, it is a mistaken one. Education is the first and most pressing duty of government, and the school board is the body which is responsible for the matters with which the people's elected representatives to any body have to deal.

Adequate schools should be the first charge on any community and if money is not available to build adequate schools, it is the job of the school board to see that it is made so.

There is the further intimation that the controller of construction in Ottawa has turned down requests for school buildings. It was known, specifically, that he had rejected a request for permission to build a gymnasium and auditorium at Smithdown, Ottawa.

A passage from his letter, defining the policy of the government in this regard, was quoted:

"We must postpone all available undertakings to conserve the resources of the country in materials and supplies for essential purposes."

It seems to be an odd conception of "essential purposes" that divorces from that category the construction of school buildings where the need is so acute.

It is the duty of the government to believe the democracy for which we fight.

Canada's Guest

Ottawa today welcomes Field Marshal Jan Christian Smuts, Prime Minister of the Union of South Africa. The Marshal is making a round-trip visit to Canada, and home from the San Francisco conference.
His visit is not just a courtesy call, for he is at the capital to urge the expansion of co-operation between Canada and South Africa.
He is sure of a sympathetic hearing on that subject, for the enlargement of international trade is a matter in which Ottawa is keenly concerned.

Marshal Smuts has just added a new dimension to his visit to Canada. He is the only man who attended the peace conference at Versailles and also that at San Francisco, and his name stands on the list of the signatories of the League of Nations and the World Security Charter.
Those who sat with him at Versailles are the Marshal's guests in Ottawa. He is beary, a fine specimen of the men who are reared on the velvet, and at San Francisco he took his full share in the arduous work of the conference.

Still in his thirties, Smuts came to world attention as one of the most capable of the Boer army leaders in South Britain. He is now, and has been for many years, one of the most outspoken and valuable champions of the British Empire.
Beginning as a soldier, he is now, and has long been, also one of the world leaders in the effort to prevent war. Had his name been listed among the names of the men who have not caught the peace-loving unprepared—and World War II would probably not have occurred.

It will be no fault of Marshal Smuts if the world has to undergo the horrors of World War III.

War Demand Grows

Residents of Detroit, Buffalo and other United States border communities will no longer be able to cross to the Canadian side on Saturdays and buy their Sunday shopping. At least that is what it is to be that unless they get export permits, and since the purpose is to stop the trade they won't get permits.

The stop-order issued at Ottawa conforms to measures taken at Washington to restrict civilian consumption of meat to the full ration. Canada is now sending forces abroad and quotas can be filled to feed the peoples of the liberated countries.
The Canadian government is now sending is ear-marked for these purposes, and the U.N.R.R.A. has been warning that the Canadian government does not seem likely to keep up its shipments unless something is done to check home consumption.

Weeks ago the export permit requirement had to be clamped on at Windsor to stop the buyers' raids from Detroit. Now the arrangement is in force all along the international border.

The war in Europe is over, but the food demand it imposed upon us is heavier than ever, because of the freeing of countries formerly closed against imports. The Pacific Allied fighting forces are growing larger, and as drought has crippled Alaskan foodstuffs, the United States must depend on this continent for supplies.

The closing of the border against the meat demand, and the reason for this action, may be taken as another intimation that meat-rationing in Canada may come back before long.

Allied officials are said to be hunting for Nazi refugees in Spain. If France is permitting that, it is because he is afraid to refuse. Having undertaken a search, if they have it, it is to be supposed the officials will go over Spain with a fine-toothed comb. They are not, of course, looking for small fry but for big shots in the Hitler scheme.

In one respect the flare-up in the Levant occurred at an opportune time. The smaller nations at San Francisco can be point to the quarrel as one which could not be settled under the Yalta voting arrangement. Since France could veto any decision of the security council that it did not like. Some modification of the "formula" can hardly fail to be made in consequence.

Senator Kilgore, just back from Germany, said at Washington that German industrial leaders are hard at work planning for World War III, and for this purpose have been drawing subsidies from the Reich treasury for upwards of a year. Now that the subsidies have ceased the planning may also cease. But it may not, it probably won't if the A.S.D. can't get there from the industrialists and thus keep them in funds.

General de Gaulle now wants a three-man commission to investigate his dispute with the Levant states. A while ago he wanted the A.S.D. to settle the dispute.
What he does not want is the three-way negotiations proposed by Prime Minister Churchill. As this happens to be the procedure which the A.S.D. in Parliament has now two grounds of disagreement where only one existed. Likely enough the matter will be referred to the League of Nations organization is set up, and figure as one of the first items on its trouble sheet.

Actors and Tailors Dressers

Having Them Just Right
For Stage and High
Of Dressing

BY MARY ALICE QUAY

Perhaps I wouldn't have been so interested in the story of getting actors dressed if I hadn't had some experience in doing the same myself. For several years ago I innocently became involved in one of Edmonton's amateur productions.

The theatrical world is a world of efficiency and it will be the show man and the show woman who will be the first to see and can rest comfortably were it not for the fear of order that hanta every actor and actress.

Contrary to one of the oldest ad-ages, the actor is not a man of the leading practitioners of the dresser's art, have the highest reputation in the theatre world.

There was sunshine, there were

Cut Coat According to Cloth

Edward Holliday in World Review How often have we heard our political and financial "Jeremiahs" saying these words which are uttered in suitably mournful tones that the situation is so bad that the war and therefore must not make any really worthwhile plans for the post-war situation.

Let us examine this statement, and see if it is logical and reasonable when applied to the situation for a better life after the war. First, the situation is not so bad as it is true that, if you have only a very insufficient quantity of cloth, you cannot make a larger coat than this is what our so-called experts say, and you are hearing of it.

Taking the analogy further, let us imagine that you have the pharse of two hundred sufficient for your needs and you wish to have this fashioned into a coat. So along you go to the tailor and describe to him exactly what you want him to make you a coat using all the material you can supply.

Upon hearing this, the tailor declines to take your order, and tells you that it is quite impossible. According to the "rule of thumb" followed by the Tailors' Guild, the proper quantity of material for a coat is determined by the size of the coat, and the quality of the material.

Now all this may appear very logical, but in practical reality it is a very different matter. The tailor is not a man of the theatre world, and he is not a man of the theatre world, and he is not a man of the theatre world, and he is not a man of the theatre world, and he is not a man of the theatre world.

Now all this may appear very

FRANK DOTTEW was in Edmonton yesterday on a player-business jaunt which will include stops at both Saskatoon and Moose Jaw. Dotte, who would like a few more men to round out his Seattle Ironmen, has taken a lease on the Seattle rink and so will be in a secure position when the new coast hockey set-up commences operations.

The Pacific Coast Amateur Hockey League organized in San Francisco last week will be divided into north and south sections. Due to travel restrictions, there will be only one inter-sectional swing for each club this coming season, with a full schedule and teams probably trying to get their engagements when normal time returns.

Paul Thompson, who has the Vancouver team, was elected northern star of the circuit. He is affiliating with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and, to the event of an Allan Cup series being played next spring, it can be taken for granted Vancouver will be making a strong bid for having the title in the coast city.

Wetters later scored on singles by Oscar Grimes and Bob Garbar. The Yanks came through with five more runs in the ninth as Kramer and Herman Bob Mauer failed to stem a hard-hitting attack.

Luis Olmo Bats in Winner As Brooklyn Beats Cubs 6-5

BROOKLYN, June 28—(AP)—The fast stepping Dodgers hammered out a ninth-inning 6-5 victory over Chicago Cubs last night to increase their National League lead over the second-place Cardinals to four games.

Luis Olmo, who in the sixth inning failed to catch a pop fly off Don Johnson's bat, the hit dropping safely for a hit that produced two runs, broke up the streak with a single that sent George Rosen over the plate.

Rosen had walked with one out and moved up a base when Augie Galan also drew a pass.

NEW YORK, June 28.—(BUP)—Baritone "Bill" Bangert confessed Wednesday that he was trying to get the legs of an adagio dancer in order to break the world record discus throw.

Bangert—America's most famous tosser—explained with naive confidence that he would win the title in the National A.A.U. track and field championships at Randall's Island Saturday though it will take a cruise around the world before he cracks the world record.

Wired "Bill" Bangert of Missouri is famous for various reasons. He is the national intercollegiate discus champion, the National A.A.U. indoor shotput champ, and probably America's best known collegiate singer.

Bangert, who was auditioned for the Metropolitan Grand Opera, says his current ambition in life is to win the world discus championship from the Italians.

Bangert, now 21, says he will turn the trick by throwing the discus more than 174 feet, 10 1/2 inches, before he has reached the age of 25. The present world record is held by Adolfo Conigli of Italy, established Oct. 26, 1931.

Bangert—of the curly, fatty hair—explains that he has been hitting about 160 consistently in practice this season—his third with the Greek saucer. This distance is good enough to give him the national championship, he says, and he will continue to step up the pace and distance as time goes on.

Bangert, former all round athlete at Missouri U., explains that he is far more interested in becoming a Met baritone than in winning any incidental bouts.

"I have studied singing for years," he said, "and my vocal ability depends largely upon my athletic prowess—of 10 to 15 tons."

Big Bill, who packs 220 pounds on a team of six-foot four and a half inches, emphasized that he is increasing his discus range "through the legs." He explained that he ran on the road every morning, took squating exercises, with proper supervision.

"Also I practiced whirling inside the discus-throwing ring," he said, "I practiced day and night to prevent sleeping or fouling outside the discus ring."

Has Bad Feet 37-Year-Old Dolph Camilli Should Help the Red Sox

By AL VERMEER
NEW YORK, June 28.—The Old Timers' Parade, which already includes such grizzled veterans as Jimmy Fox, Dick Coffman, Van Mungo, Hod Lauenberg and Jim Turner, has picked up a new member in Dolph Camilli once the darling of Dodger fans who moves in with the Red Sox for a final major league fling.

Even the 37-year-old first baseman with the barking dogs must be surprised by this latest turn of events. Picked from Brooklyn to the Giants two years ago, Dolph went into private session with Mel Ott and told a tragic little tale about how his feet were simply killing him and he didn't see how he could do the Giants a stock of good.

Touched by so honest a confession, the Giants sold him to Oakland out on the Pacific Coast where Dolph could satisfy an old yearning to become a manager and also stay close to his beef ranch up in Laytonville, Calif. The Oakland club paid a fancy chunk for the graceful first sacker and expected him to bring some of this money back by playing regularly.

But after a few weeks—Dolph decided to become a bench manager. When his bosses expressed displeasure Camilli promptly pulled off his shoes and invited them to have a look.

"See them?" asked the big slugger. "Bunions on my bunions! How a guy gotta run around with feet like that!"

His height—5-11 feet, seven inches—was given as the reason for his rejection as on the several previous visits to the foot.

Schultz left Monday night to return the Dodgers in Brooklyn on Wednesday.

Schultz Is Again Rejected By Army

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 28.—(AP)—Herschel Schultz, Brooklyn Dodger first baseman, again was rejected for military service Tuesday after a pre-induction examination at Fort Snelling.

"...the 30-day test really works... but why not say how really good* they TASTE?"

EXCERPT FROM AN ACTUAL LETTER NAME ON REQUEST

"Down in the Dumps... because I forgot one simple fact!"

FOLKS are usually glad to see the postman... unless he's an old grouchy like I was. Guess it was a grudge against me that was the cause, but I just can't take nasty doses...

"Then my wife told me about the 30-day test. Well, I started eating delicious Kellogg's Bran Flakes every morning... it sure is a habit I'm going to keep up. Now I find I have plenty of energy for my work... and for extra things, too!"

Make this 30-DAY TEST

1. If you're really fit, you'll do it. 2. Start right now to eat Kellogg's Bran Flakes every morning. No extra money. No extra effort. No extra time. Just eat the material you're already eating. 3. Just thirty days should prove you're a good person. You'll be able to tell. You'll want to go on eating the Kellogg's Bran Flakes every day in the year!

LOOK FOR the name "Kellogg's" on the wrapper. It's the only one you'll find. It's the only one you'll want. It's the only one you'll need. It's the only one you'll have. It's the only one you'll love. It's the only one you'll want to eat every day in the year!

KEEP FIT with Kellogg's Bran Flakes
